STONE RIDGE.

Stone Ridge, July 11 (P).—The many friends of Mrs. James Cantline called to extend birthday greetings on Friday, July 8. Mrs. Eben Olcott, Mrs. Finley Shepherd and Miss Jackson, of the Arabian mission, were among the callers.

The Stone Ridge Library has received a gift of one hundred books from Judge Veeder of Hurley and New York.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Reformed Church will hold the annual fair and food sale, beginning on Wednesday, August 17, and lasting four days. It will be held in the small building next to the post office.

All Stone Ridge Grangers are requested to meet in the hall Saturday, July 15, at 6 p. m., standard time, to attend the meeting of the New Paltz Grange, to which they have been invited.

There will be community church services in the Grange Hall on Sunday evening, July 17. Grange members, their friends and all in the surrounding community are invited.

$10,000,000 BUG AIR FORCE TO MAKE WAR FOR FARMERS

Recruits for Army of Aerial Fighters Being Trained by Bureau of Entomology.

New York.—An aerial fighting force numbering untold millions of European bugs that look like small, fighting monoplanes will be loosed upon America within the next few years and will fight under the banner of the American farmer to make the world safe for field corn.

Recruits for this vast army of air fighters are being trained and multiplied by Dr. L. O. Howard, chief of the bureau of entomology, at the government laboratory in Arlington, Mass., under an appropriation of $10,000,000.

The plan is, says Doctor Howard in Farm and Fireside, to employ a principle of "bug-eat-bug" in fighting the corn borer by developing a European type of parasite which preys upon the enemy of America's greatest crop. The European corn borer was imported accidentally into America in 1914 in freemast and being comparatively free of these parasites became far more dangerous than in Europe where it was constantly engaged in battle with hostile bugs. Parasites have now been brought from the French and Italian Riviera regions and within ten or fifteen years, officials estimate, they will have attained such numbers that they will be able to attack the borer in full force throughout the great corn-growing areas.

One of the most spectacular types of these aerial warriors, is a wasp-like insect that drives its stinger with unerring accuracy through a corn-stalk to the tunnel where the borer is hidden and lays its eggs of slow death upon it. The larvae of the parasite live outside the borer and eventually kill it.

South Sea Flappers

Taking to Clothes

San Francisco.—Too many clothes are ruination of the South Sea Isles.

Not only for romance's sake—although Joseph Darnard, bishop of Samoa and the Union Islands, devoutly believes in romance—but for reasons of health, clothing is undesirable in the tropics.

The bishop, interviewed here on his way to Rome after 22 years in the islands, is a proponent of the theory that aborigines are best off when left alone.

He is definitely opposed to allowing South Sea Islanders to wear trousers, shirts or collars.

Nor, he says, should tropic maidens adopt even the flimsy lingerie of their civilized sisters.

The tappa or cotton cloth, worn from neck to knees by the women and about the loins by the men, is a sufficient garment for all uses in the South Seas, the bishop declares.

"These people were constituted, born healthy; clothing reduces their vitality and contributes to the ills which have nearly exterminated some races of islanders," he says.

"The islanders can be civilized without clothing. Their condition should be improved, but it is wrong to revolutionize the ways that nature has taught them to live."

California Woman, 82,

Is Expert Wood Carver

Los Angeles, Calif.—Although past her eighty-second birthday Mrs. Adelaide Samuels Bassett is a proficient wood carver. Several of her wood-carvings, including "Rip Van Winkle," "The Old Woman Who Lived in a Shoe," "Oliver Twist," "Hickory Dickory Dock" and many conventional designs in book ends, are exhibited here.

The figures are carved with great attention to detail and require the use of specially constructed and exceedingly fine tools, which she employs deftly and without wearing eyeglasses.

"Old age need never be a deterrent to accomplishment," says Mrs. Bassett. "In the hours not employed in my professional woodcarving I am a gardener."

Mrs. Bassett is also the author of several children's books and has published many poems.

Bang! Playful Seal's

Life Ended by Bullet

LYNN, Mass.—A motorist on the North Shore motor road the other day noticed a seal swimming and diving by the roadside. He stopped and watched it. Other motorists stopped and watched it. Dozens deserted their cars and stood around the bank applauding the antics of the seal.

There was a hopeless traffic jam. Patrolmen threatened, pleaded, but the throng of nature lovers took no heed. Meanwhile the road became more thoroughly blocked.

A riot call brought an extra detail and Sergeant Lyons, crack rifle shot, and his rifle. Bang! A few bubbles appeared where the seal had been. Nature lovers returned to their cars; traffic went on.

When you consider trade-in offers on your present car, be guided by these facts

- 1 When you trade-in your used car for a new car, you are after all making a purchase, not a sale. You are simply applying your present car as a credit toward the purchase price of the new car.
- 2 Your used car has only one fundamental basis of value; i. e., what the dealer who accepts it in trade can get for it in the used car market.
- 3 Your used car has seemingly different values because competitive dealers are bidding to sell you a new car.
- 4 The largest allowance is not necessarily the best deal for you. Sometimes it is; sometimes it is not.
- 5 An excessive allowance may mean that you are paying an excessive price for the new car in comparison with its real value.
- 6 First judge the merits of the new car in comparison with its price, including all delivery and finance charges. Then weigh any difference in allowance offered on your used car.

KINGSTON, N. Y., JULY 12, 1927.

BASIS OF PROSPERITY.

"We cannot have our cake and eat it too," observes a Detroit manufacturer. "Wages cannot be higher without corresponding increase in production, from which only can workers get their return. Prosperity is the result of high average production per man, however that high production may be achieved. So the order is: First, high production; second, prosperity and high wages."

This is sound economics, a fact which labor is more ready to admit now than it was before the war. And it is because American labor, in general has greatly increased its production per man since the war that it has been able to maintain, as a new normal in time of peace, wages just about as high as those of the war boom which were based on the country's abnormal military needs.

Labor today in America is more prosperous than labor ever was before, anywhere, and it is so because American labor, in producing more for its wages than was ever before produced anywhere.

A system so soundly established tends to sustain itself because the high income of labor, giving a majority of the people more spending power, sustains the markets, stimulates industry and absorbs still greater production. This is the benevolent circle of modern American economics.

INTERNATIONAL INSURANCE

In 1922, Senator Circolo, president of the Italian Red Cross, proposed to the League of Nations Assembly that the nations unite in a mutual insurance arrangement against adverse "acts of God." On July 5, this year, a conference of 20 nations began at Geneva under the auspices of the League, to discuss such an insurance plan. The idea is to provide immediate help in disasters such as earthquakes, tidal waves, great fires, famines and pestilences, floods or tornadoes, which reach unusually grave proportions.

This international insurance would be confined purely to first aid services, to avoid delay while raising public funds. It would be carried out through existing national and international Red Cross organizations, which stand always ready for prompt service. An advisory committee is suggested, composed of one or more experts from each geographical or national area of the world, residing in the respective areas they represent.

There is nothing in this proposal to discredit the generosity of peoples to each other in times of great disaster. It simply recognizes that greater help can be given, as soon as it is needed, if the funds and organization are prepared beforehand. If a suitable plan can be worked out, and the funds raised successfully, it should make human generosity and sympathy constructively effective on a larger scale than ever before.

RED-TAPED JUSTICE.

Many times a layman in court matters feels that he could turn the wheels of justice much more satisfactorily than the people in charge. Then he runs across a news story such as the following, and begins to feel humble.

A New York gunman named Izzy was once upon a time given a 12-year sentence for manslaughter. That term expired August 22. In the meantime Izzy wandered away from a road gang and stayed away for four years, during which time he was arrested and served a sentence for some other misdeed in New Jersey. He was tried for escaping from jail, but the jury decided that he had not "escaped" in the legal sense. In the meantime his unauthorized absence from the prison had brought upon him a penalty of 924 more days under guard. Izzy is now confining in a court of law that since the old "escape" wasn't (the 924-day penalty must not be imposed and should be removed from the record so that he can be paroled. The court says his 12-year sentence has not expired yet, anyhow, so he is eligible for parole in spite of his four-year absence.

It would all be perfectly clear, no doubt, to anybody who understood the situation. But nobody does, and the officials of the New York prison system regard Izzy as a plucked nuisance. They do not know precisely what his status is or what to do with him. Technicalities and red tape usually favor the criminal, however, so he'll probably be free ere long.

The announcement that Lindbergh wrote a book of 69,000 words in his own hand between his flight from New York and his triumphant return there has since been modified by the publishers of "We" as follows: "When we signed up for the book he turned over to us a large mass of manuscript, extensive notes in his own handwriting and a lot of notes which he dictated. We have done our best to unscramble all this for him and have it copied in smooth form." There is outside report that one of the "unscramblers" was Carlisle Macdonald of the New York Times.

Canarsie, N. Y., which is said to boast a greater mosquito density per cubic foot than any settlement east of the Hudson, is reported to have risen in rebellion against being rechristened "Lindport." Canarsie ought to be allowed to consult its own taste in names even if annually compelled to gratify the taste of the little fliers mentioned.

Margot Asquith, whose own forte is not beauty, complains that "women with neither backs nor tops to their heads, and faces as large as hams, appear at the King's drawing rooms with the nuke of their necks blue from shaving." Fortunately custom requires them to walk backward out of the presence after making their bows.

REAL PAINLESS EXTRACTION.

Two doctors who looked after the patients attending the dispensary in an industrial plant in Chicago, give some interesting figures regarding the results obtained.

Drs. De Motte and Goldhorn, the two physicians mentioned, tell us that of 185 patients seeking relief from some ailment of the body, 152 or 82 per cent were cured or relieved by removal of dental infections.

There were 36 cases of muscle inflammation, 50 of joint inflammation, 43 from nerve inflammation, 19 from chronic stomach trouble, 37 from other troubles in which everything else seemed all right except the teeth.

Now these figures could be duplicated not only in many other industrial plants, but in the experience of your own family doctor where he has the cooperation of your dentist.

Fortunately the dental profession is becoming almost unanimous regarding the wisdom of removing teeth that are infected.

Where the patient suffers from toothache there is an inclination on the part of the dentist to try and save the teeth by treatment, as it is evident that Nature is putting up a fight right at the root of the tooth, and this fight causes pain. There is thus a chance to save the tooth by treatment.

Where there is little or no pain it is felt that the infection has taken too deep a hold, the fight has been practically lost, and the tooth should come out.

Fortunately also the extraction, or pulling of teeth, has now been so simplified that no patient need ever suffer pain any more. Gas is the method used most frequently, the patient can have a number of teeth removed, and from the time he inhales the gas until he wakes up is only a matter of three to five minutes.

Where gas is not used, the method is to inject a little local anesthetic into the nerve supplying all the teeth on each side. There is a feeling of numbness on the side injected, and the dentist can extract any or all the teeth on that side in a very few minutes without the slightest pain. The old method of freezing the gum is still used in some cases, and the reason?

Painless extraction of the teeth is now an actual fact. Infected teeth can not only cause the ailments mentioned above, but heart disease also. Why take a chance by leaving them in your mouth when they can be extracted cleanly and painlessly?

Forest Fire Pumps Stood Severe Test

Conservation Department Tries Out New Forest Fire Fighting Equipment—One Pump Equals Force of Fifty Men.

Albany, July 12.—At a test of forest fire pumps conducted by the Conservation Department near Lake Placid, remarkable power was developed by four varieties of portable pumps.

The test was made on the Ausable River near the ski jump on the grounds of the Lake Placid Club. In each test 1,000 feet of 1½ inch hose was laid across the field and up a very steep slope of the hill which had a vertical rise of 180 to 200 feet. Three minutes after the pumps were started the water was delivered at the nozzle at the top of the hill and streams were thrown from thirty to forty feet. With a short, hose length the force of the stream was sufficient to beat down small bushes and dig holes in the turf. Tests were also made using the pumps in tandem, the lower pump pumping into a pail half way up the hill from which the second pump on the upper level got its supply. The smallest of the pumps which weighed only 70 pounds, and which is provided with carrying straps so that it can be transported by one man, delivered a steady stream for more than half an hour.

Since the first gasoline forest fire pumps were purchased by the Conservation Department six years ago, there has been a great improvement in this class of apparatus, both in lightening the pumps and increasing the power, and one of these pumps is equal to a force of from fifty to seventy-five men, using shovels, hose and axes, in fighting a forest fire. They are particularly valuable in extinguishing a fire after its advance has been stopped. Without the use of these pumps it would be necessary, after a fire was brought under control, to leave one or more watchmen in charge until it had burned itself out. With the pumps it is possible to absolutely extinguish the fire, even though it may be burning deep down in the vegetable soil of the forest floor.

Tests were also made of several varieties of hand pumps which proved very effective in stopping fires.

The test was conducted by William G. Howard, superintendent of state forests; Kinne F. Williams, supervisor of forest fire control, and District Rangers Hopkins, Blue, Roberts, Cunningham, La Fontaine, Todd, Teal, Dare, Ferris and Taft.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

MARY GRAHAM BONNER

THE BREAKFAST PARTY

This is the story of some little creatures who got up very early in the morning for a very fine party.

It was very early, just as the sun was getting up and the dewdrops were over the flowers, the shrubs, the bushes, the grass. The fairies were the ones who had got up early and they were given a breakfast by the dewdrops.

When the invitations came the fairies were so joyful and happy.

"Ah, it's an honor," said the Fairy Queen, "to be invited to breakfast by the dewdrops."

"They know we love the dawn and the early morning when everything is so fresh and lovely looking."

"We are lucky to have such an invitation."

It was just at dawn that all the fairies arrived.

They wanted to be ahead of all the dewdrops, for they had a surprise for them, too!

When the dewdrops arrived, soon after old Mr. Sun had made his appearance, all of the fairies jumped up from their hiding places and began a lovely fairy dance in and out of the dewdrops' little thrones on the grasses.

The dewdrops were delighted and sprinkled with glee. They almost looked like diamonds, so bright and sparkling were they.

"Now, it is time for breakfast," said the dewdrops, "and we know you must be ready."

At that moment lots and lots of little elves and brownies came along, marching very straight, and carrying big trays with delicious goodies on them.

The trays were made of moss and around the edges were wild roses.

They had wild raspberries on saucers of little hollow-shaped stones.

Then they had oatmeal porridge which was made of sweet grass, and then they had little red, wild berries which take the place in Fairyland of the eggs you children eat in the morning.

The dewdrops gave them some of their much-prized dew-water to drink, and the fairies were highly honored at that.

The brownies and the elves sat down with the fairies and ate some fairy breakfast, too, for they had worked very hard helping the dewdrops.

The dewdrops, you see, can't stay up very long and they wanted to be around when all the fun was happening, so the brownies and elves said they would do all the work.

You know they are fine little workers, too.

Pretty soon the dewdrops began to grow fainter and fainter until the fairies could scarcely see them.

But they just heard them whisper as they were going away from the blades of grass, the bushes and the flowers.

"Come again, fairies," they said, "and make us a party call!"

"The sun is too hot for us now, but tomorrow morning—bright and early!"

"We'll be there, little dewdrops," shouted the fairies, as they went home after their lovely breakfast party.

"Mating Season" Makes Big Hit

Premiere Performance of New Farce soon To Be Shown in New York Delights Kingston Audience at Broadway Theatre—Presented by Star Cast.

Not often does Kingston have the chance of laughing at New York theatrical successes before New York itself laughs, but now and then Kingston has the first laugh on something really worth while. It was about a quarter of a century ago that Kingston first laughed first at Willie Dozier as he bade farewell to road work and prepared to take New York by storm, and on Monday night Kingston had its latest hearty laugh over a coming metropolitan success in "The Mating Season," which was produced at the Broadway Theatre by the same cast which will shortly produce it in New York.

Every red blooded American, whether in Kingston, New York, Oshkosh or Walla Walla, enjoys laughing at a comedy cleverly written and excellently acted, and for that reason the laughter of a Kingston audience at "The Mating Season's" premiere at the Broadway theatre will echo along New York's White Way for at least as long a time as "The Sap" and "The Cradle Snatchers," both written by William A. Grew, the author of the coming success. "Frisch" persons may take exception to certain parts of "The Mating Season," but the answer to their criticism is that "The Mating Season" contains nothing vicious in thought or action and is free from traits that leave a bad taste. On the contrary, it is filled with whole-hearted laughs.

Presented by a cast including Lillian Walker, Gladys Feldman, Owen Dolan, Pates, Ethel Martin, Kenneth Marion, Walter Poulter, Jack Coyne, Edward T. Colebrook and William A. Grew, each of whom commands the respect and applause of White Way audiences and managers. "The Mating Season" measured fully up to the expectations aroused by the promise of Mating Director Harry Laxarus, and Kingstonians who attended have been busy today advising their friends to attend tonight's performance.

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

"TO SMELL A RAT"

THIS admittedly inelegant phrase, which is frequently heard carelessly in everyday speech, had its origin in a circumstance which, fortunately, is very rare in this day of enlightenment and official regulation of sanitation and home-building.

The expression is a product of olden times, when the dog known as a rat was an adjunct of almost every household, and infested were contemporary homes with rats, and to smell a rat was by no means the unusual and terrifying experience that it would be today.

It is easily comprehensible, then, that the phrase should have come into use in the figurative significance of sensing something wrong or having one's suspicions aroused. An early use of the words in this sense is found in Samuel Butler's "Hudibras," published here in 1663.

Do You Know That...

...A POUND of flesh is a phrase used in "The Merchant of Venice." The allusion is to Shylock, the Jew, who bargained with Antonio for a pound of flesh. He was foiled in this suit by Portia, who said the bond was expressly in pound of flesh, and therefore the Jew must carry out the expressed terms of the agreement. He must cut the exact quantity, neither more nor less than a just pound; and in so doing the most not shed a drop of blood.

"A Pound of Flesh" has now come to mean the exact terms of an agreement, the whole bargain, the bond just as expressed—Anna S. Tunquist. (Copyright, Western Newspaper Union.)

Indian Peace Sign

When used to mean "friend," the Indian sign of the pipe or smoking is made as follows: (1) Tip of the two first fingers of the right hand placed against, or at right angles to, the mouth; (2) suddenly elevated upward and outward to imitate smoke expelled; a ceremonial sign for peace or friendship is the extended fingers, separated, interlocked in front of the breast, hands horizontal, backs outward. When the idea conveyed is peace or friendship with the whites, the handmaking of the latter is adopted.

When a girl has her hair bobbed she expects to have done it "like Pauline." The "and it should resemble her at all if she were a free thinker" is a common remark.

First Side-Saddle

To ride the side-saddle was considered a feminine art in the 18th century. It was not until the 19th century that it was considered a manly art. The side-saddle was first used by women in the 18th century, and it was not until the 19th century that it was considered a manly art.

Food Industries Increase Workers

Very Little Net Change in Employment in New York State During June—Reductions in Some Manufacturing Offset by Increases in Others.

Albany, July 12.—The opening of the canning season in June brought a very good increase in employment in the food industries of New York state. Reports from 119 food products factories showed a net increase of six per cent from May to June according to Industrial Commissioner James A. Hamilton. In the canning industry itself gains were even larger with several factories reporting forces more than four times as large as in May. Other food industries also reported increased employment. In the bakery group the large establishments were among concerns specializing in crackers or cake. The several bakeries, especially the smaller shops manufacturing for local trade, reported employment even with only slightly greater than last month. There was also a very considerable increase in employment in firms making beverages, candy and ice cream. Sugar refineries in and near New York city were increasing operations.

Little Net Change.

Considering all the manufacturing industries of the state, said Commissioner Hamilton, there was very little net change in employment during the thirty days from May 15 to June 15. The total number of workers employed by more than 12,600 firms which report regularly to the State Department of Labor was almost as large as in May.

The outstanding decrease for the month was in the manufacture of paper where employment continued downward after a drop of four per cent from April to May.

Men's Clothing Factories Bigger. Most of the clothing and textile trades were still reducing their forces. Manufacturers of men's clothing, however, have begun work on fall orders and employment in this group of factories advanced enough to offset, numerically, the losses in the other garment and needle trades. There was also a moderate increase in employment for shoe workers.

Irregularity in the Metals.

The tendency in the metal industries was slightly downward, although several industries reported gains. Most of the manufacturers of automobiles and automobile parts were reducing operations, a fact which indicates the close of the season rather than a slump in business. In the machinery group there was a good deal of irregularity, but, in general, the production of manufacturing machinery was reduced while that of electrical apparatus and equipment was increased. The heating apparatus group, which reported a slight reduction in employment from April to May, showed even greater losses in June. Railroad equipment and repair shops, on the other hand, were busier this month. Employment in the instrument factories and in both sheet metal and hardware, and structural and architectural iron work remained even. There were some reductions in the iron and steel plants. Most of the wood products factories were operating at a slightly lower rate than in May, but the stone, clay and glass group reported no change.

BAHAMAS GET WATER FROM SHALLOW WELLS.

Washington, July 12 (AP).—Wells must be shallow to produce drinking water in the Bahamas Islands, otherwise they will yield only sea water. That explains why Nassau, capital of these British possessions off the Florida coast, is driving hundreds of shallow wells in groups to provide itself a water supply.

As outlined in Commerce Department reports, the Bahamas problem is not unusual for small islands of low elevation which are surrounded by the sea. Part of their rainfall is conserved in the upper strata of their soil, but underneath the briny flood seeps in and a well drilled too deep penetrates it.

Excavating Cave of Sleepers of Ephesus

A cave for centuries the accredited resting place of the Seven Sleepers of Ephesus, is now being excavated by Austrian scientists at Ephesus, thirty-one miles from Smyrna, in an attempt to obtain light on the ancient legend. Seven young men of Ephesus, upon being persecuted for refusing to worship an idol, ran away and hid in a cave, according to the legend. The emperor ordered their cave to be sealed up.

In A. D. 479 a workman, digging the foundations of a house, broke into the cave and found seven men asleep in it. They woke up when he called to them and gave him money to buy bread and wine for them. The coins were of a variety minted more than 200 years previously, and the seven men were declared to be the same as those who lived up in A. D. 250. The affair was officially proclaimed a miracle.

The sleepers soon sank into a coma again and died, the legend runs. Their remains were later removed to Marseilles, France.

"Phunny Phord" At Rhinebeck Fair

Unique Car Which Provides Amusement for Everybody to Be a Feature on Entertainment Program at Fair in August.

There have been Fords and Fords—some good, some bad, some new and some old, some as ancient as the moss-grown Ford joke itself. Yet it is doubtful if, in the entire category of this unique and rare car, there has ever been a more care-free and side-splitting variety than that of the "Phunny Phord", which will be seen locally for the first time at the Dutchess County Fair at Springbrook, Park, Rhinebeck, from August 29 to September 2.

If you can imagine a Ford tanked up with synthetic gin, overcome with acute cramps in the region of its carburetor, Charlestoning all over the Springbrook campus, chasing its owner while emitting spurts of fire and streams of water, he will begin to gather a faint inkling of what a distinctly individual "machine" the "Phunny Phord" is. At first appearance it would seem that the familiar little "bus" has all the manners, docility and habits of its more sedate tin sister but once it gets under way, the "Phunny Phord" seems a creature apart. Its motto is "Let laugh be unrestrained".

The "Phunny Phord" provides probably the biggest laugh act in the country, and everybody should see it when it toots its horn to the Dutchess county public every afternoon and evening during fair week at Rhinebeck. It is the only car of its kind, more hilarious even than the huzzles of movie comedy creation, what's more, every part of its mechanism is protected from infringement by United States patent laws. An child, from six to sixty, will find it an amusing spectacle to see when fair time arrives at Rhinebeck the week before Labor Day.

ST REMY

St. Remy, July 11.—There will be a sale of all costumes worn by the people of this community in the Lister County Pageant on Wednesday afternoon, July 13. The material of the women's and girls costumes may be used for household purposes. Those who do not care to buy their costumes are requested to return them the day of the sale so the committee in charge can return them to the Home Bureau.

Harry Miller and friend of New York city were week-end guests of Kenneth Krom and family. The cherry crop is not large this year in this section. Red berries are beginning to ripen.

Miss Nellie Cole was the guest of her sister, Mrs. Clyde Frost, on Sunday.

Kenneth Krom and family have returned from their vacation to the White Mountains and Vermont on Saturday, much pleased with the trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Valf of Kingston were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Schaffer.

Mr. and Mrs. Luther Shults and Arthur Roosa and family were guests of C. York and family the past week.

Deafness Not Lasting

Airplane deafness is only a transient disability lasting at most a few hours. It is caused largely by the crack of the exhaust. The main remedies are technical such as the use of silencers, while the aviator may use some form of ear stopper, either a simple plug of oiled cotton or mechanical stoppers attached to his cap or helmet.

NEW PALTZ

New Paltz, July 12.—A regular meeting of Huguenot Grange was held on Saturday evening. The entertainment was in charge of Edgar V. Beebe. First there were two songs by the Grangers. Then came an amusing recitation entitled "Teaching Friend Wife to Drive the Car", by Mrs. Raymond Jenkins, who gave as an encore "Your Flag and My Flag". C. C. Ward gave an interesting talk on the development of the United States. After the meeting refreshments of ice cream, cake and strawberries were served by the refreshment committee.

Dancing completed the evening. Those who chanced to be listening in on the program being broadcast from the Freeport, Long Island, radio station on Monday evening of last week were surprised to hear an original vocal number dedicated to a fishing party out on Great South Bay made up of J. H. Foster, C. C. Ward, E. V. Beebe and Vernon Wright. The song, composed for the occasion, was sung to the tune of "My Bonnie Lies Over the Ocean". The fishing party was being given by Mr. Foster on board his boat, "Patrol", which is equipped with a fine receiving set. The reception was found to be better through the air than through the water. Mr. Ward and Mr. Beebe are from New Paltz.

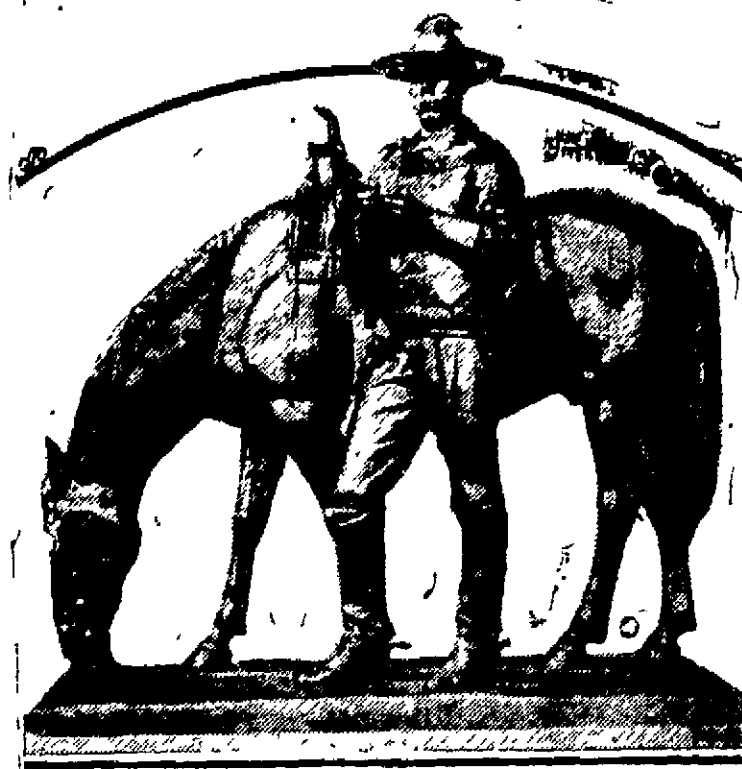

The Rev. Frederick Bradley had a fine sermon at the union service in the Reformed Church on July 4.

Miss Marjorie Branner and Poughkeepsie friends enjoyed a trip to Albany the past week.

Gerald Richards of New York and Leonard Richards of Philadelphia spent the Fourth with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Richards.

Mother Used to Bake Bread

THE modern housewife today has learned that it does not pay to bake bread—she can buy good bread easily and cheaply and save herself the drudgery that is attendant to bread making.

But what kind of bread does she buy—does she just buy bread—thinking that all bread is equally good—that equal care is used in the baking and in the precautions of cleanliness and sanitation of all bread, or does she buy bread by name?

An advertised product is of necessity a good product—no sane manufacturer today would dare risk the possibilities of failure by advertising a product that could not withstand the test of quality—especially when the product is bought not once but every day of the year.

The housewife instinctively knows that advertised brands are good brands—especially when she sees the advertising consistently in a medium in which she has confidence—her daily newspaper.

The great majority of the 3,127 wholesale bakers in New York state assume that bread is bread and is not bought by name—they depend on the retailer to sell their output unadvised.

There is a normal demand for bread—but an added demand may be created by consistently pointing out its food value. There are many outstanding examples where large and profitable businesses have been built and every one of them have recognized the value of advertising.

The market of every baker is pretty well localized and limited to the territory which he can adequately service every day—so the selling job is entirely localized.

The daily newspaper answers every possible requirement of a baker who is alert to either establish or develop his particular territory.

We would be pleased to assist any baker, large or small, with intimate facts concerning his particular market. Ask this newspaper or write the Advertising Bureau, NEW YORK STATE PUBLISHER, Charlotte St., Utica, N. Y.

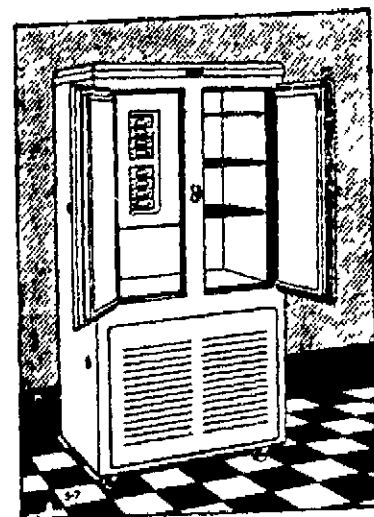

Pertinent Facts Regarding This State

IN THIS STATE there are 3,127 bakers of bread and other bakery products; they employ 39,261 people who receive a total annual wage of $52,902,798. The annual production is estimated at $296,546,477.

Tagging Major League Bases

(By The Associated Press.)

Base running may be a lost art in modern baseball but it has been used to win two games in the American League.

"Bucky" Harris stole home in the tenth inning against Cleveland yesterday and enabled the Senators to win their sixth straight from the Indians, 3-2. Bill Barrett's daring thievery in the ninth won for the Chicago White Sox against Boston, 7-6. With the score tied in the final inning, Barrett singled, stole second, went to third when the pitcher's throw to nab him rolled to the outfield, and came home while the Yankees juggled the ball.

The Athletics hopped on Elam Vangilder for 14 hits and made it three out of four from St. Louis. The score was 7-6. The Browns drove Jack Quinn out in the second, but Johnson allowed only three hits in six innings until relieved by Joe Tate. Ty Cobb got three hits, including a home run with one man on base.

GOLDY SUGAR BOWLS DOWN BINKEDINKS, 9-7

The Goldy Sugar Bowls defeated the Binkedinks, 9-7, Monday evening at Block Park. Five of the seven runs scored by the Binkedinks were registered in the first three innings when Bill Norton worked the box position. He overworked in the box position, but he relieved him and allowed but two runs in the opening inning and the Goldies again found him for five runs in the third, which tied the score. In the fourth the Goldies clinched the game with two additional scores. Pinner and Norton scored the winning runs. The Goldy Sugar Bowls will take on the Binkedinks Wednesday night at Block Park.

Secret Drill May Make Dempsey

On Result of Jack's Secret Workouts With Dave Shade May Depend The Fate of His Comeback Engagement With Sharkey.

White Sulphur Springs, Saratoga Lake, N. Y., July 12 (AP).—Jack Dempsey has been up to something at his cottage very deep in the woods a mile from the lake shore training headquarters—and now the secret is out.

Every morning Dave Shade, Jack's middle-weight pal from California, steals from the camp just after dawn and meets Jack in the hay field back of the cottage. There, with Trainer Jerry Luvadis, the pair hold a secret workout for 30 minutes before Jack takes to the road for a five mile run.

During that time they practice just two moves—and on the result of Jack's secret drill may depend the fate of his comeback engagement with Jack Sharkey in Yankee Stadium July 21.

Dave, possessor of one of the fastest left jabs in the flat game, shoots that hand into Dempsey's head. The former champion catches the blow on his right glove, and with almost the same motion whips his left to Shade's body. Then they try the move again and again until Dave tires and Jerry, the faithful Greek, takes his place. Mammoth 16 ounce gloves pad Dempsey's hands to prevent damage to either of his helpers.

The workouts at dawn have been going on for a week now in anticipation of the title-like left hand. Sharkey has employed so successfully in fighting his way to a contending position in the heavyweight title hunt. Jack in the coming fight expects to see even more left jabs than Gene Tunney threw his way in winning the championship last fall. But Dempsey, also, plans to be ready for such an attack with a defense and offense that comprise little more than a single movement.

After the Sunday layoff, Dempsey yesterday turned in the snappiest workout of his two weeks here in camp. Jack's speed and vicious punching power carried his form back to last Wednesday when he appeared close to the "edge" he plans for the Sharkey battle, and followed two days of slow and sluggish milling.

Dempsey and His Sharkey Makes Party Drenched His Blows Count

Flooring of Wharf Collapses and Down Goes Dempsey and Party in Two Feet of Water—Starts Lake George Marathon.

Hague, N. Y., July 12 (AP).—An accident that nearly proved serious but which finally furnished a crowd of about 5,000 spectators with the first laugh of the day greeted Jack Dempsey's arrival here to start the Lake George 24 mile Marathon today.

As the former heavyweight champion stepped from a steamboat that had converted him up the lake, after an automobile trip from Saratoga, a crowd rushed to greet him and the flooring of the wharf collapsed. Down went Dempsey and his party, and amid the scramble of about 100 persons in two feet of water, Jack disappeared from sight.

As women screamed and spectators dashed to the rescue, the milling crowd thrashed in the water and from the center of the mob appeared Leo Flynn, Dempsey's manager, with his white flannel trousers all wet. Jack came next, dragging a woman from the heap, and his gray suit and sporty white shoes were soaked through.

Everyone escaped with no more than a wetting to the waist, with the exception of Jerry Luvadis, the faithful little trainer of the former titleholder. Jerry was last from the muddle and as fast as he scrambled up the gang plank of broken boards he fell back again into the shallow water. He was finally rescued drenched to the skin.

Perfect weather conditions under a cloudless sky and warm sun greeted the 149 entries as they lined up for the $10,000, pull in the icy waters of this inland basin. There was every type of suit on the bank, every color, and ranging from scanty to full length. Little Schoemmel, originator of the grease bathing suit, appeared in her favorite costume as did many others. The water along the 24 mile course from here to Lake George village ranged in temperature between 40 and 55 degrees. The race started over an hour after the time set 8:45.

Dempsey's Early Knockout Style Opening Matches At Lake Mohonk

Floored 25 of His Opponents With First-round Knockouts in His Career—Fighters Records.

New York, July 12 (AP).—If the battle between Jack Dempsey and Jack Sharkey July 21 is to have an early knockout ending, the records point to Dempsey as the man more likely to produce it.

Coming out of his corner with the double-barreled "kayo" cocked and ready, the Dempsey of old floored 25 of his opponents with first-round knockouts in the course of his brilliant career. That savage offense at the start may be his best defense against Sharkey who has the advantage of youth's superior stamina in a long-drawn battle.

To add the ex-gob to his first-round "kayo" list, Dempsey must hark back to 1919. Not since that great year in which he won the title has he finished a foe in the first frame.

Sharkey's shorter record shows but one first-round knockout, scored over Billy Muldoon in 1924. Both have been knocked out. Once in each career the mighty has fallen. Dempsey's conqueror was Fireman Jim Flynn who downed him for the count in one round in 1917. Sharkey's was Romero Rojas who knocked the sailor helpless in the night in 1924.

Analysis of the evolution of Sharkey's punch shows a startling increase in its power in the years that have dampened the dynamite in Dempsey's fists.

From a fighter without a punch, Sharkey became this year a dangerous hitter who slashed Mike McTigue so severely the referee stopped the bout, and who knocked out Jim Maloney in the fifth round. These were his last two fights. In them Sharkey seemed to find and use, almost for the first time, the devastating power of his punch. While Sharkey's victory over Wills last fall was won on a foul, the Lithuanian had all the better of it and that battle served to rank him among the logical contenders for the title.

Outstanding among Dempsey's great fights is his three-round knockout of Jess Willard in Toledo in 1919 for the championship. In his defense he knocked out Billy Mekeo in 3 rounds, Bill Brennan in 12, Georges Carpentier in 4, Luis Firpo in 2 and won from Tom Gibbons in 15, before Gene Tunney out fought him to win the crown in 10 rounds at Philadelphia.

Dempsey at 32 is a veteran of 75 fights of which he took 47 by knockouts, won 11, drew 4 and lost 3. Ten were exhibitions and three no-decisions.

Sharkey at 25 has to his credit 10 knockouts and 17 victories in 33 fights. He lost 4 and 2 were no-decisions.

Jim Barnes Leads In British Open

St. Andrews, Scotland, July 12 (AP).—Jim Barnes of New Rochelle, N. Y., today led the early qualifiers in the British open championship with a 153 for his two days play, but the young amateur, Edwin Haley, also of the United States, appeared eliminated with a 164.

Bobby Jones, the Atlanta star, who is seeking to retain the open crown which he won so brilliantly at St. Ann's-on-the-Sea last year, was scheduled to take off late today on his second round. He turned in a card of 75 yesterday, somewhat higher than his sensational practice rounds of last week.

Young Haley, who made an excellent impression in the recent British Amateur championships, figured that he had to make 77 today in order to qualify. Instead he was six strokes worse, turning in an 82 which was even poorer than his 81 of yesterday. Too costly lost balls resulted in two 78 on his card, one at the long fifth and the other at the fourteenth.

A drizzling rain blew in from the North Sea all morning and the early totals on both qualifying courses were high, the first half dozen cards all being 80 or over. Jim Barnes being the lone exception with a 79.

Long Jim, with his 74 of yesterday in support, played well within himself this morning, but a slackness continued on the greens. There was great interest in his progress and nearly 2,000 spectators crowded the last green as he finished.

At the 570 yard fifth, Barnes pulled his iron into a bunker near the green and took a five on the hole. At the ninth he topped his drive and took another 5. Jim holed a 3 yard putt for a birdie 3 at the 214 yard twelfth, but at the very next hole took a six. At the long fourteenth he played a home approach and topped the run for a five and took another six before he could get down.

Haley, the British veteran, took a 75 today, giving him a total of 114.

Len Macfadyen, Australian amateur champion, took a 75 tomorrow in a total of 113.

Opening Matches At Lake Mohonk

Lake Mohonk, July 12.—The opening matches of the seventh annual Ulster county tennis championship were played on the Mohonk Club courts Monday afternoon, and a number of favorites came through with victories. In the complete schedule there will be eighty-two competitors, including the players in the men's and women's division.

Monday's matches produced the following winners in the men's section: Ralph Baggs, Henry Bassford, Norman Johnson and Watson Knight. The former pair reached the semi-finals last season. Baggs easily scored over George Walker, 6-0, 6-1. Bassford encountered a strong opponent in St. Clair Moorehead, whom he vanquished, 6-3, 6-4.

The summaries:

Men's Singles.

First round—Ralph L. Baggs defeated George A. Walker, 6-0, 6-1; Walter Yearsley defeated Harold Swait, 6-1, 6-2; Watson H. Knight defeated Captain Albert Gore, 6-3, 6-2; Hugh Nehring defeated A. E. Burton, 6-1, 6-2; Norman Winter defeated Robert Herzog, 6-0, 6-1; Norman Johnson defeated G. H. Cox, 6-4, 6-3; Henry H. Bassford defeated St. C. Moorehead, 6-3, 6-4; John W. Strahan defeated Norman Shidle, 10-8, 6-2.

Women's Singles.

First round—Mrs. W. H. Pritchard defeated Miss Ida Jova, 6-0, 6-1; Miss Rosamund Newton defeated Miss Holly O'Dell, 6-1, 6-1; Miss Ella May Yearsley defeated Mrs. Ralph Lane, 6-2, 1-6, 6-2; Mrs. Arthur Deane defeated Mrs. George A. Walker, 6-2, 6-4; Mrs. Philip S. Hawk defeated Miss Jane Maxwell, 6-1, 6-1.

Joseph Griffin of Detroit has been named track captain for Notre Dame in 1928. He is a hurdler and high jumper.

Rochester has conditionally purchased Arthur Cousins, pitcher, from the Fairmont club of the Middle-Atlantic league.

Another very adroit paradox is the word "contest" as applied to a ball game in which the Yanks are 11 ahead in the fifth.

The New York Giants have released Sanford Hamby, young catcher, to the New Orleans club of the Southern league.

Montreal, the largest city on the continent without a club in organized baseball, may succeed Reading in the International league.

The big thrill in ballooning is that you haven't any more idea where you are going to land than a baseball in a Red Sox double play.

Lester Roupel, a young right-handed pitcher, has been obtained by Reading from the Chicago Cubs. He had been with the big league club all spring.

RED INDIANS STILL HOLD TO PAGANISM

Firm in Faith of Primitive Codes of Ancestors.

Nearly 100,000 Indians in the United States are untouched by Christian doctrines, the board of Indian commissioners recently estimated, and remain to all intents and purposes pagans, presumably still holding in large measure the beliefs of their ancestors. What these primitive Indian religious beliefs are is described by the National Geographic society.

"Poetic fancy and a natural tendency to describe newly encountered beliefs and customs in terms of those already familiar have given white people many false ideas in regard to the religious beliefs of the American Indians," says a society bulletin. "Some enthusiasts have pictured the typical red man as noble and ethical beyond his white brother, believing in a fatherly 'Great Spirit' and striving to live the good life that he may go after death to the 'Happy Hunting Ground.' This is a fallacy.

"There is no single religion of the American Indians. Instead the beliefs differed widely in different sections and among different tribes. There was, however, a general similarity of views, and these were about what could have been expected from people of a relatively primitive degree of culture. Nowhere does what could truly be called the conception of a 'Great Spirit,' an overruling deity, emerge.

"There were greater and lesser spirits, to be sure, but the characteristic Indian belief is in a multitude of spirits animating animals, objects and the various forces of nature. Nor were these spirits inherently good or bad morally. They might help or hinder the individual in his activities or health, or whether they did the one or the other was the test of their 'goodness' or 'badness' for him.

"The primitive Indian has no conception of a hell; nor is his entry into the spirit land dependent on his conduct. He enters it as a matter of course, he believes, and continues there whatever activities have interested him in this life. To some tribes this is a 'skyland' to others it is merely a region of the earth, 'in the West,' 'across the sea,' or 'beyond a river.' Others believe the villages of the dead to be near their villages, but invisible.

"Coupled in the mind of the primitive Indian with a belief in many spirits is a belief in magic, through which the spirits can be influenced. The medicine men possessed the secrets of such magic. It was believed, and often interceded. All Indians believe in the possession of a soul which leaves the body at death. They also believe that it leaves at other times, and some tribes ascribe illness to this absence of the soul. The services of the medicine man are sought to recover the missing soul. Belief in a continuing soul did not lead to ancestor worship, as among Eastern peoples.

"Most Indian mythologists do not concern themselves with creation. They assume the existence of the earth and deal with its peopling and with the origin of arts, customs and rites. All these are supposed to have come by a sort of revelation. Some tribes, however, especially those of the Pacific coast region, do have a creation myth. In some it is 'Old Man Above,' in others an animal, such as the coyote or the silver fox, who makes a hole in the sky, comes to earth and creates the animals and men. In some of these myths there is only water beneath the sky, but the descending being creates the earth in the form of an island, which grows.

"Morality and ethics were well developed among American Indians. They have a strong sense of conscience and many individuals are strikingly benevolent. The tribal morality was strict. He who lied, failed to keep his promises or stole within the tribe was disgraced. Murder, too, was punished. War removed, ethical barriers among Indians, as it has among most people in all ages. It then became a virtue for the Indian to kill his enemies and to take their property.

"On the whole, the Indian's religious beliefs may be described as being wholly practical and as springing from fear of the more or less hostile forces of nature that surrounded him. His various rites arose from his efforts to propitiate or to take advantage of these forces."

Silk Hosiery Popular

Short skirts are blamed for women stepping out of cotton stockings into the silk-stockings class, says the Path. Under Magazine. Of the 60,000,000 pairs of women's hose made in this country in 1925 less than 20,000,000 were of cotton. This is a drop of about 3,000,000 pairs of cotton stockings and a larger gain for silk or rayon.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press.)

Ver-sur-Mer—One of Commander Eyrd's pleasant recollections of his landing place in France will be a farewell blow at the home of Mme. Emile Collier, at whose house he got his first sleep after flying the Atlantic. "I know you are tired of champagne, so I have made you a cup of tea," she greeted him when he came to say goodbye. Touring the town the commander kissed scores of babies.

Seattle—Folk under the influence of liquor should be prevented from going up in the air, in the opinion of a coroner's jury. It found that a crash in which four persons were killed was due to the intoxicated condition of three passengers.

New York—Four-fifths of the applicants for the army air service have to be rejected now. Referring to this in a radio address, F. Truette Davidson, assistant secretary of war, urged that the American Legion arouse the interest of young men who may possess flying ability.

New York—Miss Kathryn Bache, daughter of Jules Bache, financier, is to wed Gilbert Miller, managing director of Charles Frohman, Inc., and son of the late Henry Miller. The marriage is to be in Paris, to which city Miller and the Mrs. Miller, formerly Mrs. J. W. Allen, went last year, presumably for a divorce.

Chicago—With his wealthy bride, who preferred another marriage to a European trip with a sister, Richard Bennett, actor, is to spend his honeymoon in Chicago. At work his bride received her final decree of divorce last Friday from Harry Coghill Hastings, San Francisco polo player.

Paris—It may be tough on fellows who want to see Dempsey fight Sharkey, but Jack Kearns must have his bit. He plans to arrive in New York one day before the fight, and if collector of his bill interferes with the bout, well, he's sorry, that's all.

Plenty of Soapsuds in Washing Dainty Frocks

Many women buy delicate fabrics without considering, until afterward, the problem of cleaning them. L. Ray Balderston, instructor in household arts, Teachers' college, Columbia university, gives some expert advice in McCall's. She says:

"Plenty of soapsuds is needed for this work and the first consideration in making suds is that the soap or soap flakes must be good—good enough to wash the most delicate skin. A perfect test of a soap in any form is that a woman can use it without shivering her hands."

"Then dissolve the soap flakes or cake soap shaved fine in hot water so there will be no lumps of undissolved soap. The result is a perfect soap solution, which is a real working necessity, for undissolved soap streaks and spreads in the fiber and often leaves white spots which are really stains in themselves. Add this solution to the wash water."

"One soapy wash water usually is too little to clean a garment. Have two bowls of soapy water ready and then transfer the garment from the soiled suds to a clean, fresh wash water."

"The temperature of the soapy wash water is one of the all-important points. Mostly dainty work will give the best results if you have the water about the temperature of the hand, 88, degrees Fahrenheit, or even lower."

"After the garment has been freed of all the moisture you can squeeze out, it should be laid in dry clean cloths (white, of course). To roll a dress, so no colors will touch each other put a large cloth up through the length of the dress like a slip and a piece down each sleeve. Then lay the garment on a cloth and under another cloth. These wrapping cloths will show you that your garment has been saved, for there will be a complete stencil of the pattern on the cloth where the garment bled while it was rolled."

Most Charming Model for Women's Outfit

A dressmaker's pet saying is that to be successful a model must also be practical. A white georgette crepe dress over a black satin slip is a striking illustration of the old saying. The French woman uses such dresses for bright spring days at the races and for afternoon functions at which she wishes to look her informal best. The American woman uses them for luncheon parties, for bridge, country club teas and for afternoons at home.

White silk braid alternates with graduated tucks on the skirt of the overdress. It opens down the front to show the black underdress. A steel buckle holds the overdress together at the low waistline. This is one of the most charming spring models.

Feather Embroidery Is Used on Shawls, Gowns

New feather embroidery is perfected. Delicate fronds of ostrich worked into rich designs form the decoration on many shawls and some evening dresses and exclusive evening slippers.

Particularly striking are shawls of white silk, embroidered in black and white ostrich with a fringe of black or white. The softness and grace of the wrap make it good for flapper or grandmother.

Beige in Cosmopolitan Effects

Several tones of beige are skillfully combined in the smartest street and sports costumes for spring. The color effect is carried out through the entire costume, from hat to shoes.

Blood in Human Body

Experiments have shown that the total blood volume of a series of healthy men averaged 4.9 per cent, or approximately one-twentieth of the body weight. There were individual variations of from 4.2 per cent to 5.6 per cent.

CAMP COOKING

The camping season is upon us and the good camper is one who is able to get along and be happy with few of the comforts of the home.

For the housewife who is dependent upon her modern equipment to aid in making house-keeping a pleasure, the simple outfit of the real camper would find her helpless. We need to get away from the conveniences which make life so enjoyable, to really appreciate our blessings, while the novelty of going without and using our own ingenuity, is a source of pleasure.

The camp cook who can produce a good meal, with the background of a hunk of bacon, a frying pan and a sack of flour or meal, is worth further acquaintance. He builds a fire, makes a stove of stones, on which he places his frying pan; then when the sizzling pork or bacon is cooked, in it he lays a freshly caught trout or other fish rolled in seasoned meal and fried to a crisp deliciousness that satisfies the hungry appetite of the most fastidious.

Fish fresh from the running brook, broiled before a fire held by two sticks, will give the unsatisfied taste of a savory dish which civilization can never produce.

The variety of foods that are good and wholesome which may be found in the woods, besides fish, flesh and fowl, are many. The common beek when boiled and served with a drawn butter sauce is delightfully appetizing. Eaten raw they are used as green onions and in salads. To prepare the drawn butter cook a little flour and butter together until thick; add boiling water and cook until smooth. Of course bacon fat can be used if butter is not obtainable.

Those who are annoyed by all the outdoor insects, the rough roads and long waits for bites when fishing, who cannot dress for the part or go unhampered with weight and ready to enjoy even the discomforts of simple foods prepared in the open, would better remain at home, for such companions spell the feast for the camp lover.

Just a motor trip in Canada, a steamer voyage, or a month at one of the smart ranches, where clothes, although practical of nature, must also be smart.

The raincoat often looks like a cousin of the leather coat, and has succumbed to the same regulation rule. Printed rubber raincoats in snake or lizard design are the last word, unless certain very expensive imported types as light as silk be mentioned. One's raincoat these days is double-breasted, with manish patch pockets, a belt, and knotted collar.

"Antipodes" Too Often Term Wrongly Used

The term "antipodes" is strictly applied to any two peoples or places on opposite sides of the earth and so situated that a straight line drawn from one to another passes through the center of the earth. Loosely, however, the term is applied to any place on the opposite side of the earth from us. China is popularly supposed to be the antipodes of the United States and there is an old saying that if one were to dig a hole deep enough he would fall into China. But this is a misconception, for China and the United States are both in the northern hemisphere. The true antipodes of the United States is a region in the Indian ocean west of Australia. No part of the North American continent has its antipodes in any land surface. The antipodes of South America fall in the region of China, the Philippines and Borneo, while the antipodes of Europe and Asia are in the South Pacific. The approximate antipodes of London is Antipodes Island, near New Zealand.—Pathfinder Magazine.

The young man hesitatingly entered her father's presence. With a preliminary clearing of the throat and a nervous twitch of his fingers, he said:

"I have come to ask if I may marry your daughter Gertrude."

"You may," said the father, promptly, at he passed the cigars. "And, now, may I take you into my confidence?"

"Why—er—" exclaimed the happy man.

"Well, my boy," said his future father-in-law, "I just want to say that as you pass around among your friends, I wish you'd get some of them excited about Margaret, Dorothy, Bella, and Nancy. And put a couple of cigars in your pocket."

RED AIRPLANE WRECKED WHEN LANDS NEAR BULL.

Shelbville, Ky., July 12 (AP)—A Bluegrass bull is the latest addition to the perils of airplaning.

William Van Arsdall, of Harrodsburg, Ky., made an emergency landing in his bright red plane in the pasture of a farm near here. While he went for help, a bull grazing in the pasture sighted the machine and charged it.

When Van Arsdall returned he found wing coverings and struts ripped and cracked. Strips of red cloth covered the ground and the fuselage and elevators of the plane were badly damaged.

"It's Not Wives, It's Lawyers," Say Anti-Alimonyists, a Thousand Strong

By ELMER CLARK

International Illustrated News Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK (I-I-N).—Keep away from scheming lawyers, wives! That's the plea of the Alimony Payers' Protective Association.

"Eighty per cent of the court fights between husbands and wives are caused by unscrupulous lawyers," says Robert G. Ecob, New York architect and one of the triumvirate that rules the organization. "These lawyers seize upon wives who have had slight trouble with their husbands. They magnify the troubles until the wife is certain that divorce or separation is the only escape. Then they form a partnership with the wife to bleed the husband."

So "Keep away from lawyers" is the first of ten suggestions offered wives by the A. I. P. A.

"They make bitter enemies of your husbands. They make profits and cause trouble. Your husband will give you more money voluntarily than you will ever get in court."

The other nine suggestions—

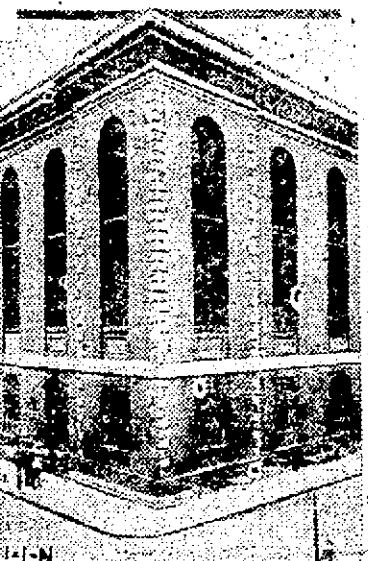

You are your husband's wife. Keep the laws subdued or at least in the background.

Do not run off with the children, move the furniture out, and take all the money you can lay your hands on. Your husband is sure to resent such treatment, and will never give it.

Do not prevent your husband from seeing the children. It precludes any reconciliation.

Do not shirk your duty. Just because you are married does not mean that you can fold your hands in idleness the rest of your life.

Give your husband consideration. He selected you from all other women, has provided a home and supports you, has insured his life to provide for you when he is dead, and is doing his best to provide you with luxury.

Do not attempt to secure legal separation thinking you will be better off and that you can bring your husband to terms.

Do not kill the goose that lays the golden eggs. Your husband can't succeed at anything without your active co-operation.

"The association is not opposed to alimony," Ecob points out. "It's opposed to illegal alimony. It aims to awaken public opinion to the menace of grafting lawyers who use perjury to obtain unjust alimony. It stands against imprisonment for debt."

The association boasts more than 1,000 members, scattered all over the United States. Its membership includes alimony-paying husbands, their families, and a scattering of now happily married men.

"Our most enthusiastic members are second wives," says Ecob. "They object to seeing their husbands pay alimony to the first."

The association is, in a way, a successor to the old Alimony Club that flourished in the Ludlow street jail. It was there that husbands who failed to pay alimony were locked up. The law once provided that after a six-months imprisonment, husbands could not be molested again, and hundreds sought the arrest that ended in financial freedom.

Life in the jail was easy, in fact, it was a veritable club. Inmates did as they pleased—ordered meals and best cigars from outside, and passed the time in reading and playing games. In its heyday it held such prominent persons as Theodore Roberts, the actor, and William M. ("Boss") Tweed. Tweed, who as supervisor helped dedicate the jail, was incarcerated under an attachment in a civil suit, and it was there that the notorious boss died.

Since the law has been changed permitting a husband to be sentenced as often as he failed to pay up, and the number of interned dropped to almost nothing.

Only three members of the A. I. P. A. are in prison now, according to the association's records. These include John G. Gastleigh, one of the executives, who has been locked up for nine months now, and Samuel Reid, the famous "alimony martyr" of Glenn County, California, who's been in jail for years for refusing to pay alimony to his wife after she married again.

commandments, because the association realizes that wives can't be commanded—are:

Do not have your husband arrested. He will never give you any money voluntarily after arrest and will never have anything to do with you if he can possibly avoid it.

Avoid making your husband jealous.

BEAUTY IS GUIDE IN NORTHWOODS

Virginia Owens, fair resident of the Crawling Stone Lake region of Wisconsin, is earning money to attend college by acting as guide for fishing, hunting and hiking parties. She is the only woman guide in the north woods, where brawny Franco-Canadian guides are an established institution. The latter are said to regard her with disfavor.

Old Indian Recreation

Formerly what is now the Indian reservation forest was included in the Indian reservation. Many of the streams, mountains and valleys in the forest still bear Indian names. In the Twenty division Spanish names abound, reminders of its former connection with Mexico and Spain. Soldiers were early attracted to the country by the rich mineral deposits, from which many sizable fortunes have been secured. Among the mines are the famous Camp Bird, Animas, Atlas, Mountain Top, Golden Treasure, Ruby Trust and others of lesser note.

Light Helps Police

Criminals who utter comments with any ink that contains iron can be detected by a new device, according to Professor Theodore Torm, scientist, in Popular Science Monthly. Toxic chemicals who open letters and reveal them also are being caught by the rays, one kind of machine, for instance, gives with a fluorescent light under the rays, while another does not. Artificial pearls, however skillfully made, are revealed as false, as are imitation diamonds. The latest genuine diamonds shine with a magnificent purple light under rays of the ultra-violet lamp.

Birthdays

Take care to remember the birthdays of your friends and relatives. Unmindfulness in this respect is often regarded as a slight and easily overlooked. How many people, especially those who live alone, are heard to express their disappointment, in that no one remembered them, no one came to see them on their birthday? Life is fleeting. Our friends and dear ones are here today and gone tomorrow. Therefore, if there is anything we can do, our kindnesses are our show that will brighten their lives. Let us do it while opportunity is still here.
